ELEUTHERA WHERE WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD COMES TO PLAY!

The Idyllic Bahamian Island of Eleuthera, which in Greek means "Freedom", received its name from its first settlers who were in search of religious freedom; Preacher's Cave being their first place of shelter in the new world. This one hundred and six mile long limestone island is aligned with miles of secluded and captivating creamy white beaches, interrupted occasionally by coves, inlets and rock masses. Breathtaking coral reefs and sand banks inhabit the crystal clear turquoise blue water surrounding the island. The majority of Eleuthera's settlements are located on its western shores. These picturesque and sedate settlements exhibit the colonial style housing of a past generation. Larger settlements such as Rock Sound and Governor's Harbour are the hubs of business commerce. A large portion of the islands friendly inhabitants are fisherman, farmers and workers in the tourist industry. There has been a great deal of foreign investment on the island which has enhanced, rather than altered the islands tropical charm.
